Subject interview of: (UNK) [redacted] - b(7)(C)-5
Date/Place: 16 Jun 03/Guantanamo Bay, Cuba - b(7)(C)-5
On 16 Jun 03, [redacted] ISN# [redacted] was interviewed at Camp Delta, Guantanamo Bay Naval Station, Cuba by SA [redacted] (OSI) and SA [redacted] (FBI). Pashtu language translation was provided by Contract Linguist [redacted] - b(7)(C)-5 provided the following information.

[redacted] stated that any discrepancies in his stories over the course of multiple interviews are due to human error, not deception. If [redacted] fellow villagers in Afghanistan (AF) are questioned, none of them will say anything bad about [redacted] - b(7)(C)-5

[redacted] received word while he was being held at Bagram that his wife had just had a son. [redacted] was shown multiple photos of detainees. [redacted] recognized two different photos of himself and recognized [redacted] the photo of one detainee because he had seen him at Camp Delta. [redacted] professed not to recognize [redacted] - b(7)(C)-3, [redacted] b(7)(C)-5, [redacted] b(7)(C)-3, [redacted] b(7)(C)-5, [redacted] b(7)(C)-3, [redacted] b(7)(C)-5

[redacted] was introduced to [redacted] by [redacted] cousin. When the Karzai government took over, [redacted] became the [redacted] is not sure which. [redacted] went to work for [redacted] but he [redacted] is not sure whether he was in the police or the military. [redacted] was paid 500-600 Pakistani (PK) rupees per month. He worked for [redacted] for 1 1/2 to 2 months. Since he was not paid enough to survive, he left. One night [redacted] was sleeping inside his house with his family. [redacted] broke in the door to his home while armed with an AK-47. [redacted] told the rest of [redacted] family to go back to sleep and took [redacted] outside. [redacted] cursed at [redacted] for spending too much time with [redacted] took [redacted] with him that night and left [redacted] family crying inside their home. [redacted] then forced [redacted] to show him where [redacted] house was located in Kandybagh. [redacted] joined them for the trip to [redacted] house. [redacted] and [redacted] fired two rockets towards [redacted] house. [redacted] saw them light the rockets and then heard the sound of the rockets firing about 15 minutes later after they had walked away. [redacted] then sent [redacted] home with 100 PK rupees. [redacted] tried to refuse the money, but [redacted] wouldn't let him. [redacted] and [redacted] went a separate way from [redacted] and [redacted] went home. [redacted] told his family what happened after he got home. Two days later [redacted] arrived at [redacted] house. [redacted] brought [redacted] and [redacted] with him. [redacted] mother followed them outside. [redacted] told [redacted] that he had buried two rockets in [redacted] garden and that [redacted] should be quiet about it. [redacted] then handed [redacted] another 100 PK rupees. [redacted] mother told his younger brother to run to town and tell the police what was happening. When [redacted] heard this he and [redacted] ran away in the opposite direction. When [redacted] younger brother came back he told them that the police said they would come to the house the next morning. When the police arrived the next morning, [redacted] took them to the buried rockets. Then they arrested him and took him away to Jalalabad where an Afghan commander beat [redacted] and pulled his toenails out with pliers. The Afghan commander kept asking him who the rockets belonged to. [redacted] kept telling him [redacted] owned the rockets, and only [redacted] owned the rockets. [redacted] was tied up and two to three days later was given to the U.S. [redacted] protested to the U.S. soldiers that they should check with [redacted] fellow villagers and they would vouch for him. At Bagram air base [redacted] was beaten by U.S. soldiers and hung by his hands for 2-3 hours. After the second Eid [redacted] was brought to Camp Delta and he has been here ever since.

[redacted] met [redacted] approximately 8 months ago [redacted] saw [redacted] a total of three times. The first was the night [redacted] kicked his door in. The second was when [redacted] saw [redacted] sitting in a hotel near a bus stop. The third time was when [redacted] returned to tell him about the buried rockets.

[redacted] and [redacted] are enemies. [redacted] first learned of this animosity on the first night that [redacted] came to house. [redacted] did not have the power to face [redacted] directly. Since he was weaker than [redacted] attacked [redacted] through [redacted] punished [redacted] through [redacted]

[redacted] buried the rockets in [redacted]s garden the same night he came to tell him that he buried the rockets. [redacted] gave [redacted] the 100 PK rupees after telling [redacted] about the buried rockets. [redacted] grape garden is a little less than one acre in size. Since [redacted] buried the rockets at night, [redacted] did not see [redacted] bury the rockets. [redacted] still was able to tell where the rockets were buried because he worked in the garden every day and knew it well. [redacted] noticed a disturbance in the ground and knew that was where the rockets were.

[redacted] then changed his story to the following: All of [redacted] family members go to the garden. Prior to the arrival of the soldiers, [redacted]s mother dug up the rockets and told [redacted] where they were. When [redacted] was confronted on the fact that a man would not let a woman do such a thing in AF, [redacted] replied that it was normal for a woman to go to the garden. [redacted]s mother went to the garden while he was at the marketplace. When he returned she told him where the rockets were and then he checked himself just to be sure.

[redacted] believes it is up to the interviewing agents whether to believe him or not. [redacted] does not want to protect [redacted]s not protecting anyone. [redacted] never worked for the [redacted] aka [redacted]. In fact, [redacted] has never heard of him. [redacted] was shown a photo of [redacted] and still denied knowing him. Nor does [redacted] know [redacted] does know [redacted] has written to [redacted] and asked him to take care of [redacted] family.
