how he knew they were Americans and not Afghan soldiers, [REDACTED] identified the people who detained him were wearing uniforms just like the guards operating the BPCF. He said they also spoke English. b(7)(C)5

[REDACTED] related the plastic device was placed so tight on his arms that he quickly lost all feeling in his right arm below the device. He also related he has not been able to use his arm since that time and described how it was constantly numb feeling and his inability to move his hand at his wrist. (NOTE: He did not use the arm at all during the interview) [REDACTED] said when he was taken away from his home, he was placed in the back of a big truck (with his arms and wrist tied together) and forced to sit along the side of the truck. nails, which stuck out from the side of the truck that was sticking him on his arms, and causing severe pain to is left elbow area. He indicated they beat him at this point on his upper back and legs. [REDACTED] was asked to describe how he was beat and he took his shoes and demonstrated being hit with his shoes, and indicated the Americans used their boots. It was determined [REDACTED] was indicating he had been kicked. [REDACTED] related his left arm at the elbow was hurting really bad, and once the Americans got to Khowst, it was obvious his arm was injured as his clothing was full of blood under his left arm at the elbow. [REDACTED] said American medical personnel who stitched up the injuries to his left arm treated him. He further related the medical personnel provided him with a bandage to help him support his right arm as he had lost all use and feeling within that arm. [REDACTED] was able to show this agent a scar to his left elbow about 3" in length, which is almost healed. [REDACTED] also
