WANT TO MAKE THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT UNDER OATH:

I swear that the summary of [redacted] oral statement given to [redacted] on 6 June 2004, is accurate and complete. It is not verbatim, but does contain the substance of all statements made by [redacted]

My name is [redacted]. On the night of my capture at 2 o'clock, while I was sleeping, I heard something. The door didn't open after the explosion because it was very strong. After that the wall including the door fell off. Then the forces were in with the guns. They intruded inside. They said, 'Are you [redacted]?' I said yes. They kicked my head with their shoes in front of my wives and children. They handcuffed me and took me somewhere in Tikrit. They were interrogating me. They put me in a very small place. This was as long as it is, white. This was how high it was, I couldn't even stand up. It was an iron ceiling and a door. The door opens a slight up or down. It was a box not a room. It was a building, you could not move it. It was like a bathroom that was divided, three rooms on this side and three rooms on the other side. The vision was limited. The only comfortable position I would be in was when I was sitting down. The place was for many people. I was captured on the 27th of April. The compartmented area was the first place I went to and I was there for seven days. Three times I was just about to die. They put duct tape around my mouth and nose. I was almost out of breath. It was suffocating. When they realized I was about to die they took the tape off of me. They opened my mouth so they could resuscitate me. I started breathing and I started to get alert a little bit. I was not completely out of it. Then they throw water all over me to revive me. They let me have some rest. One guy was stepping on me on this side, and the other guy was stepping on the other. I was suffocating. Then they let me rest. There were three men. One of them was Kurdish and two Americans. I was blindfolded at some point, but I blinked a little bit so I saw them. I recognized their voices also, they were the same guys who were beating me up while they [redacted] me. I saw them the minute that they walked into my house, and I saw them when I was in my compartment. One was [redacted] color and the other one was white. They were both Americans but one of them was not a black guy, but just dark in color, me. Neither of them had a mustache or beard. They would give me a break then come back and do the same thing over again. They were asking me to confess that I was attacking the Coalition forces. I didn't attack anybody. And every time that I said I didn't do it, he beat me more. The darker guy and the Kurdish guy were beating me up. The third one, an American white guy, was asking me the questions, asking me to confess. The Kurdish was the one that was mostly beating me up. When they were holding me the way I described before, it was the Kurdish and the white American that were doing that to me. The American dark skinned man was just standing there. They kept on beating me up until I said any name. I was just saying any names that came to my mind to get out of this, they were all lies. They were asking me about Fedayeen. They hit me on my foot too with a big stick until my feet were all blue. The dark American was hitting me with the stick. They kicked me in the eye; I didn't see who kicked me. It was all blue for forty days. They didn't say what kinds of weapons I was accused of using to attack Coalition forces. The Kurdish guy threatened me and said he was going to fuck me and bring my two wives and fuck them in front of my eyes. One of the persons that I was detained with is here; his name is [redacted]. Another guy is here also, his name was [redacted]. On the night they took us, 28 or 30 people were captured that day. The three of us were in each one of these compartments. They didn't offer me food or water. They were throwing water at me but not giving me any to drink. They were shocking me with electricity. Only five days no food no drink. On the sixth day they gave me a piece of cake and a full bottle of water. On the eighth day they took me to an Islamic school that was being turned into a prison. I was there for 24 days. It was a pleasant stay. Good guys. They cut off my clothes at the first place and for seven days I was naked. All the detainees were the same. Before I went to the school they gave me this dress. The building I stayed in for seven days there was very loud, irritating, frightening music, sounds like somebody telling somebody else that I'm going to cut your head off, in weak Arabic. It continued for about seven days. The room where they beat me, the floor was tiled. There was like some kind of dripping water in there. The walls were white. The light wasn't very strong. No furniture in the room. We were all standing. It was a big house. It was [redacted] father in law's. They beat me bad here, and I was urinating blood for seven days. They did the same thing to the other two guys. I told the doctors and they gave me medicine. The blood stopped from the urine
