[redacted] said that he would not talk or cooperate until such time as he was permitted to make a telephone call to his family. It was explained to [redacted] that "it doesn't work that way". [redacted] would have to tell the truth about his activities with [redacted] before he would be allowed any extra privileges.

[redacted] stated that many of the detainees were being mistreated. Some were being brought into interrogations, late at night, and beaten. [redacted] said that he was not personally aware of this, but it is common knowledge among the detainees. [redacted] showed the interviewers his chest and stomach by lifting up his shirt. [redacted] appeared to claim that he had been beaten. There was no visible sign of injury. When asked about details, [redacted] reverted back to the fact that he wanted a phone call.

[redacted] said that this was the most he had ever talked, but would not talk again until he got phone call. [redacted] is concerned about the welfare of his family and wants to let them know he is alright. [redacted] appears to be evaluating his interviewers. He commented that a previous interrogator, [redacted] was not very clever. [redacted] wondered if SA [redacted] was in fact "American". [redacted] remarked that SA [redacted] was "dangerous". [redacted] did not elaborate.

[redacted] believes that he will never leave Camp Delta and is prepared to stay indefinitely. [redacted] was told that detainees, to include Saudis, are leaving. [redacted] did not believe this. When [redacted] first got to Camp Delta, he thought he would be one of the first people to leave. "Everyone" thought the same thing. [redacted] now believes that he will be at Camp Delta for a very long time and has lost all hope of ever getting out.
