eaving That's a pain because of its location away from everything else Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early its 6,00 aim.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one 'formal' consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duty and people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detained interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordeal considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army Sign who is in charge of MP Intelligence liaison. My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU into the mainstream. Any questions that you may have, I'm sure they could answer.	To: BAU/CASMIRC b7C -1 Date: Sun, Sep 22,2002 11 31 AM Subject: GTMO Gazette - 2nd Edition Hello to all, Greetings from tam-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, isidore left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy days/nights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-skeeved knill shirts, cargo pants, boots are the us dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us follicle-challenged individuals. Jarrived on Thursday as departed. We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kritchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the mate/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6 00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator who we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on during the people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or might. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	sual g b6 ig b7c e
To: SAU/CASMIRC b7C -1 Date: Sun, Sep 22,2002 11 31 AM Subject: GTMO Gazette - 2nd Edition Helio to all, Greetings from tam-soaked Cuba, torget the advice that it never reins down here, isrdore left us with several inches of rein over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy daysinghts. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved kind shirts, cargo pants, bools are the usual dress, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-outcothes for other turns. Also, hets am a must for us folkicle-challenged individuals. Introduced the short of the shirts with a full kitchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a rice TV/VCR, etc. Someone goes need to follow up on the melifemale living quarters as 1 had to stay in the Backetr Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early is 5 00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observation/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duty and people asky you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordical considering space meanagement, injuriest, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army SSgt who is in charge of MP Intelligence liaison. My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great tob of networking the BAU mit the ministream. Any questions that you may have. Well, gotta go to a meeting bot of whe the properties of the properties of the properties. The properties of the properties.	To: BAU/CASMIRC b7C -1 Date: Sun, Sep 22,2002 11 31 AM Subject: GTMO Gazette - 2nd Edition Hello to all, Greetings from tam-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, isidore left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy days/nights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-skeeved knill shirts, cargo pants, boots are the us dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us follicle-challenged individuals. Jarrived on Thursday as departed. We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kritchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the mate/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6 00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator who we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on during the people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or might. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	sual g b6 ig b7c e
Date: Sun, Sep 22,2002 11 31 AM Subject: Sun, Sep 22,2002 11 31 AM Subject: GTMO Gazette - 2nd Edition Hidle to all, Greetings from tax-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, isidore left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy dayshights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved fint shirts, cargo pants, boots are the usual dress, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-outclothes for other times. Also, hats arm a must for us folkele-challenged individuals ———————————————————————————————————	To: BAU/CASMIRC b7C -1 Date: Sun, Sep 22,2002 11 31 AM Subject: GTMO Gazette - 2nd Edition Hello to all, Greetings from tam-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, isidore left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy days/nights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-skeeved knill shirts, cargo pants, boots are the us dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us follicle-challenged individuals. Jarrived on Thursday as departed. We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kritchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the mate/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6 00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator who we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on during the people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or might. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	sual g b6 ig b7c e
High to all, Greetings from tain-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, is idone left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hold and stearny days/inghts. Cothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved kind shirts, cargo parits, boots are the usual dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hets ama must for us folkicle-challenged individuals. Application of the lest 2 bedroom apartment with a full kindner. Supertainlike with no ruge, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone goes need to follow up on the male/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Backler Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early is 6.00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formall consultation with a DRS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duty and people ask you questions or just want to talk about at detained interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordical considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army Segt who is in charge of MP intelligence liaison. My plaudis again to	Helio to all, Greetings from tam-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, isidore left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy days/nights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-skeeved knill shirts, cargo pants, boots are the us dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us follacle-challenged individuals. Jarrived on Thursday as departed We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kritchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the mate/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6 00 a m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator who we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on durand people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	sual g b6 ig b7c e
Greetings from tax-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, isidore left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and stearny dayshights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved kint shirts, cargo pants, boots are the usual dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-outclothes for other tunes. Also, hets aim a must for us folkicle-challenged individuals.	Greetings from tam-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, is done left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy days/nights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-skeeved knill shirts, cargo pants, boots are the us dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us folkicle-challenged individuals.	sual g b6 ig b7c e
Greetings from tam-soaked Cube, forget the advice that it never reins down here, isidone left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy dayshights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved knil shirts, cargo parits, woots are the usual dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other times. Also, hats ama must for us folkele-challenged individuals. Interpret on Thursday as departed We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kitchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but confloctable enough with a rice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the materfamelia living quarters as 1 had to stay in the Bachetor Quarters prior to leaving That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early is 6,00 am.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observation/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duty and people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordeal considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army SSgt who is in charge of MP Intelligence liaison. My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU minimizers. Any questions that you may have, I'm sure they could answer Additionally, just e-mail for living any processor of the process	Greetings from tam-soaked Cuba. forget the advice that it never rains down here, isidore left us with several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy days/nights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved knill shirts, cargo pants, boots are the us dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us follucle-challenged individuals. Parrived on Thursday as departed. We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kitchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/CR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the mate/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6 00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator who we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on durand people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detained interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	sual g b6 ig b7c e
several incides of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy dayshights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved knill shirts, cargo pants, boots are the usual dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us folkicle-challenged individuals. The provided in thursday as departed. We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living squarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a tult kitchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but be conflortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone goes need to folkiow up on the male/female living quarters as 1 had to stay in the Bachetor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early us 6.00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observation/suggestions. Essentially, you ere shays on duty and people asky you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordical considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army SSgt who is in charge of MP Intelligence liaison. My plaudist segain to and for setting this entire "imission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU more than surface. The process of the proce	several inches of rain over the lest 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy dayshights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved knil shirts, cargo pants, boots are the us dreas, plus shorts, lee shirts, work-out clothes for other tures. Also, hats am a must for us follicle-challenged individuals. arrived on Thursday as departed We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kritchen. Sipartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the male/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early its 6 00 aim.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formall consultation with a DHS interrogator whe we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on duting people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	sual g b6 ig b7c e quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full Ritchen Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the male/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you'do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early is 6 00 am.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on duty and people ask; you questions or just want to talk about a detained interview at all times of the day or right. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling assues which is quite an ordical considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army SSgt who is in charge of MP intelligence liaison. My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU into the mainstream Any questions that you may have. I'm sure they could answer Additionally, just e-mail or I with any issues/questions you may have. Well, gotta go to a meeting. All the best, DETAINEES-1195	quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kitchen. Separtan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the mate/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6.00 aim.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formall consultation with a DHS interrogator which we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on duting people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	e eere quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a TUTI Kritchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the malerfemale living by the process as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the samer things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early its 6.00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formall consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duty and people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detained interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordical considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army SSgt who is in charge of MP Intelligence liaison. My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU into the mainstream. Any questions that you may have. I'm sure they could answer Additionally, just e-mail or I with any issues/questions you may have. Well, gotta go to a meeting. All the best, DETAINEES-1195	quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kitchen. Separtan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc., but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the mate/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6.00 aim.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formall consultation with a DHS interrogator which we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you ere always on duting people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	e eere
Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early its 5 00 aim) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duty and people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detainee interview at all times of the day or right. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordeal considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army SSgt who is in charge of MP Intelligence liaison. My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU into the mainstream. Any questions that you may have, I'm sure they could answer Additionally, just e-mail or I with any issues/questions you may have. All the best, DETAINEES-1195	quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else. Every day is extremely similar as you do the same things with the same people at the same times. Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early its 6 00 a.m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formall consultation with a DHS interrogator whe we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duly and people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detained interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	e ere
Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 6.00 a m.) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formal consultation with a DHS interrogator where we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on duty and people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detained interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an ordeal considering space management, linguists, etc. We also had a long conversation with an Army SSgt who is in charge of MP Intelligence liaison. My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU into the mainstream. Any questions that you may have, I'm sure they could answer Additionally, just e-mail or I with any issues/questions you may have. All the best, All the best, DETAINEES-1195	Time is spent observing interviews at Delta (as early as 5.00 aim) and providing input, if requested. The Process is something to experience. We have had one formall consultation with a DHS interrogator who we reviewed a file and discussed specific observations/suggestions. Essentially, you are always on dul and people ask you questions or just want to talk about a detained interview at all times of the day or night. We continue to meet with the military personnel tasked with scheduling issues which is quite an	ere b6 -1 b7C -1 b7C -1 DETAINEES-1195	My plaudits again to and for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job networking the BAU into the mainstream. Any questions that you may have, I'm sure they could answe
DETAINEES-1195	All the best,
DETAINEES-1195	b6	5 -1
DETAINEES-1195	b7	/C -1
DETAINEES-1195
DETAINEES-1195	OP CALLED
	**
1198		_
, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,	119	4
	,,,	•