The interviewing techniques that were observed by SA [redacted] involved the two unknown interviewers from an unknown other government agency sitting a detainee down on the floor in the center of an interview room, while rap type music was being played at a very high volume using a portable Radio/CD player, and while the interviewers smoked cigars and blew the smoke from these cigars towards the face of the detainee, and continuously laughed at the detainee. These interview techniques were seen by SA [redacted] and SA [redacted] through one-way glass in an adjacent room to the interview room and were observed for a few minutes prior to SA [redacted] and SA [redacted].

Based on SA []'s acquaintances and familiarity (S) with the [] Navy — b1 Criminal Intelligence Agency (NCIS) interviewers, and FBI interviews in GTMO during this time frame, it is believed with reasonable certainty that the two individuals involved in this incident were not [] NCIS, or FBI interviewers. It is (S) believed that these two interviewers may have been from either the Defense Humint Services, the Defense Intelligence Agency, or contracted in some fashion through the US Army.
