We were given a sheet with the Interrogation Rules of Engagements and were told what we could and could not do. We were also told about some of the interrogation ecchniques which required approval prior to us executing them. Within the first two week of our arrival, we were given the IROEs to sign. The image that surprised me about the IROE was that certain approaches of our arrival, we were given the IROEs to sign. The image that surprised me about the IROE was that certain approaches required a certain level of approval while others that I felt should have required approval were acceptable. When I asked about them, I was told that is what had been approved and that was the way it was. One of the techniques requiring prior approval were approved. [Incomplete and Fee Down. 	described as accurate. I asked to see the log and they had not recorded the incident. I also nation that had not recorded some other incidents which I knew had nappened based on what my soldiers told me. When I went to check on a detainee, I would go straight to their nell and did not look at other detainees for several reasons, I did not want the detainees to see me because I might interrogate them at some point and I did not want them to see me in other circumstances than in the interrogation booth. It was also too dark in the cells to see anything unless the detainee was right up against the cell door.
	Sometimes a detainee would call out to me as I walked by. They asked us for things. I tried to minimize my contact with them. I never saw an MP kick, punch or push a detainee. There were sometimes when I questioned their actions. Once, I noticed that a detainee was wet and cold. His blankets were also wet. The detainee stated that the MPs had washed their clothes and gave it back to them wet. I went to the MPs and told them to get the detainee dry clothes. They said they did not have any, I told him to get some. I can't remember the date; it must have been in December because it was fairly cold outside. I believe this occurred in the late nighttime or early morning. I believe the linguist with me was one of my favorite linguists. He was very good. In reference to female panties, I remember seeing the detainees wearing them. Anyone who walked out to the cell should have seen them.
	I didn't report it because I thought they were approved. This was considered an acceptable approach and the MPs did it for disciplinary action. I personally never signed off on an interrogation plan on this technique. If one of my Tiger Team members purposely did this without my signature, I would have recommended removal from interrogations. The MPs had some detainees handcuffed to the cell door. I asked them if this was part of their SOP, they replied with, "What SOP?" My first line supervisor I would report it to was well we had daily meetings with all the section differently. They were used during a shake down and inside the first line of concertina wire in the camp. The dogs if they had been used for interrogations, would be used as a and she went to stop from interrogating. I think notified she had some arguments from others in the chain of command about being allowed to have "contact" with detainees. At that moment, there were no interrogation plans. I took my teams and told them "do not do anything you would normally not do. Watch yourself." I interrogated one IP who might have known who brought the gun. After being unsuccessful, I handed him over to the MPs to process him as a detainee. I saw no dogs that evening. If an interrogator asked an MP to have a dog bark near a detainee who was being interrogated or questioned and if that interrogator told the detainee that if he did not answer the questions they were going to sick the dog on him, that would have been a violation of the IROEs. If they did it without a prior approval from higher, they were wrong and would be pulled from interrogations immediately. I constantly made comments to my section about not doing anything without my approval. Obviously, things occurred without my approval but as soon as I found out about misbehavior, I took action. Sometimes I was supported by the chain of command and sometimes I wasn't. There was no doubt in my mind that my section understood my rules about approving approaches before they went in the booth and following procedure for exceptions to IROE. There was a rumor about three male interrogators who had done an interrogation with a female. If a gathering was called for this incident, I do not remember since we were always having formations for where he appeared to be agitated. One evening, around 0200 or 0300 hours, there were some administrative issues I was busy dealing with from higher. came to me and said he needed to speak to me. I told him to wait and he said he needed to speak to me now. I hung up the phone and began to speak to him. He told me that had just screwed up. They both did the talking. the detainee and he would not answer and he had a bad attitude so she stripped him of his clothes. I asked her if the detainee was naked when she walked him back into the compound (Vigilant) and she said she gave him a blanket. I told her that we had had riots and this event could have caused a not if the detainees saw a female walking a naked detainee. I told her she did not have this in her interrogation plan I had signed and that was relieving her from interrogations pending me notifying the chain of command. concerned me with her was nervous and very remorseful. attitude. No matter how I explained it to her, she still didn't feel that she had done anything wrong. This event happened even after I had a session with everyone in my section about what they could and could not do. I went to see the MPs and asked if the detainee was clothed and if they had had any problems. I asked them to log it and write when she came on duty around 0600 or 0700 an incident report. I notified asked us to write sworn statements. I found out during the sworn hours. statement writing that there was a third soldier who was involved but he was brand new and was sitting in the interrogation for the first time. I told was a lose cannon and a jail sentence waiting to happen. I had been in the thought efore and I felt that he and I clashed as interrogators. He thought that was because he always gave his E liked to BS with the MPs. In reference to name as a point of contact. shaving detainees head, I know we had a head lice problem and we had to shave off the hair. If the shaving was done for interrogation approach purposes, it was an exception to and I had a conversation about the use of dogs. He and another IROE. Once, SGT wanted to used them as part of a drawn out approach. I told him that there were aspects of the approach that were crossing the line. He disagreed with me and wanted to go higher up the chain of command. We took the issue to He didn't listen to me very often because he always had others from the chain of command that supported him and told him he was doing a great job. Most of the requests we submitted were on sleep deprivation and we did get some approved. The requests should be in the JIDC, but I can believe them getting lost because we often lost complete files. Our filing system was not the best. We did not have serviceable fie cabinets and teams were given approval to place file in cardboard boxes. One day when I briefed LTG SANCHEZ and MG FAST, I was asked what support we needed. I gave her my list. File cabinets and safes were on the list. MG FAST delivered about 40% of the list, but no file cabinets. Civilians were placed in position of authority. One of the CACI employees, placed in charge of screening. S was in charge of B Section. was in charge of the Detainee Assessment Board (DAB). Who did I think was in charge? When I first arrived, I knew was in charge of the Interrogation Control Element (ICE). I knew COL PAPPAS was the Brigade Commander but he was never there. He later lived in the ICE area though. I knew that were there but honestly I do not know what their true roles were. was more involved with housing issues and didn't really get involved with interrogations so when he would call formations and was giving us orders in relation to interrogations, I questioned that. Once he held a formation to incorporate a new "salute" policy. I raised my hand and asked him how that would affect the interrogators who use a different rank as approaches. He yelled at me and said ne wouldn't argue this with me. I felt it was wrong for him to be involved in interrogation rules or procedures with no interrogation background. I don't think his boundaries were clear to anyone, including him. I know reported to but I did not know what he did. I found this out during one of the meetings when was trying to give her to be quiet and back down. As far as ghost opinion, she was told by detainees I didn't deal too much with them. We had a board in the ICE that showed all the cells to include those that had "OGA" on them. I was told the detainees in those cells belonged to OGA and we shouldn't be concerned about them. I was told that I did not have to allow OGA to see my detainees. When was there and I denied their request, the chain of command backed me up. Once, left, my requests to deny OGA access to my detainees were denied by my chain of command. might have more information. She worked more with them. The only other thing about OGA is that I was told that one of their detainees died of a heart attack in our detention facility while being interrogated. In reference to or April 2004, the told me that a guy had told her that she had left it in the Internet haves to see whom it belonged to. We saw several pictures of MPs in several photos. I reported it to the later that the photos were not that bad. I do not know what happened here were several files. I was shown some photos and told him we found fooked at the photos and told him we found here were several files. I was shown some photos and was able to be a facing the camera. There are some dog handlers close with the camera. There are some dog handlers close with the same had be it lived in the same le named the shows a picture with an analyst who worked in with his back facing us and he is looking down at naked cuffed leaning against the left wall facing the naked detainees on the shorts and is looking sown at the detainees. Photo 25 on file is Photo 54 on file wall facing the naked detainees on the oversite but I was never made aware of the ICRC results.
