EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

1. Naval Hospital Oak Harbor (NHOH) reported an allegation of the mistreatment of one of more Enemy Prisoners of War (EPWs) by one of their Corpsman, identified as [REDACTED], USN, while deployed to Iraq in support of USMC units in Operation Iraqi Freedom. Of the nine corpsman that deployed from NHOH, seven were available to interview. All of the remaining corpsman assigned to NHOH, minus [REDACTED] were interviewed relative to any knowledge of the mistreatment of EPWs by any of their peers. One interviewee, [REDACTED] stated [REDACTED] told him that he roughed up some EPWs while in Iraq. [REDACTED] was interviewed and stated he never abused or assaulted any EPWs, but admitted to pushing one EPW's face in the dirt and tripping other difficult EPWs to put them on the ground. NCIS Field Office Marine West was contacted to determine if [REDACTED] name surfaced in a separate investigation by that office involving the abuse of Iraqi EPWs, but there was no connection determined involving [REDACTED]. The facts of this case and [REDACTED] statements were screened with the Trial Service Office West Det, NAS Whidbey Island, which indicated that [REDACTED] actions would not merit disciplinary or prosecutive action. No further investigative activity will be performed by NCISRA Whidbey Island related to this case. Investigation is closed.

NARRATIVE

1. On 06Oct03, [REDACTED] NHOH, reported he learned through a counseling session that a deployed Corpsman, while in Iraq, mistreated one or more EPWs. [REDACTED] provided the last name of [REDACTED] the corpsman that allegedly "roughed up" some

EPWS while in Iraq. [REDACTED] was later identified as [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] As background, nine corpsman from NHOH were informed on 29JAN03, that they were to be deployed to Iraq. On 31JAN03, the corpsman deployed to Camp Pendleton, CA. Subsequent to approximately three weeks of training in CA, the corpsman flew to Kuwait, where they were separated and assigned to different USMC Companies within the 1st Marine Division. Seven of the nine Corpsman that deployed to Iraq are still assigned to NHOH. One of the Corpsman, [REDACTED] is now assigned to the NAVHOSP in Keflavik. Another CORPSMAN, [REDACTED] is now separated from the Navy. None of the Corpsmen served together in the same unit.

3. [REDACTED] a friend of [REDACTED] stated [REDACTED] admitted to him, during a conversation they had after returning to the United States, that he roughed up some Iraqi EPWs. [REDACTED] was the last of the corpsman to return back to the United States. He returned in mid-SEP03, while some came back as early as JUN03. [REDACTED] related that [REDACTED] told him that he forced EPWs' heads in the dirt if they did not comply with orders they were given to put their heads down on the ground. This action would occur when the EPWs were cuffed and laying on the ground. According to [REDACTED], [REDACTED] said he had to set the EPWs straight if they were talking, moving, or not complying with orders directed at them. He said [REDACTED] told him the first way to set EPWs straight is to yell at them, then resort to more physical means if required. [REDACTED] told [REDACTED] he hit an EPW with an empty, tan, plastic, five-gallon water container for not complying with orders. [REDACTED] was unsure how many times the EPW was told to cease/correct his actions, and he was also unsure where the EPW was hit and how many times. [REDACTED] cited [REDACTED] appeared to have lost a significant amount of weight in Iraq. [REDACTED] observed [REDACTED] was bitter, disgruntled and agitated upon returning from his deployment. Exhibit (5) provides further detail of the interview with [REDACTED]

4. On 08OCT03, [REDACTED] was interviewed regarding his experience in Iraq and the allegations that he abused or assaulted any Iraqi EPWs. Subsequent to signing his Military Suspect's Acknowledgement and Waiver of Rights, [REDACTED] stated he never abused any EPWs. [REDACTED] stated that of the eight other corpsman with which he deployed, [REDACTED] had regular contact with him while they were deployed. Subsequent to President BUSH declaring an end to the war, [REDACTED] stated he saw [REDACTED] two or three times a week. [REDACTED] said he volunteered to assist the Marines in patting down EPWs after they were taken into custody to ensure they were free of weapons or dangerous items. He volunteered for this duty to gain better acceptance of the Marines. Most of the EPWs [REDACTED] encountered were looters. [REDACTED] said he had to force some EPWs to the ground by tripping them. [REDACTED] offered he used a stick to tap the part of the body he wanted the EPW to move due to the language barrier. [REDACTED] explained the use of the stick was as an intermediary device between verbal commands and direct manipulation of body parts. [REDACTED] said he stopped using the stick about JUN03, after a general order from the Battalion Commander was disseminated ceasing the use of such objects. [REDACTED] said he forced an EPW's face in the dirt to keep him from moving. [REDACTED] did not admit to any incidents where he hurt an EPW and denied assaulting any EPWs. Exhibits (6) and (7) pertain.

5. The NCIS Field Office Marine West was contacted to determine if [REDACTED] name surfaced in a separate investigation by that office pertaining to the abuse of Iraqi EPWs, which determined [REDACTED] had no role in events leading to the NCISFO Marine West investigation. The alleged events occurring during [REDACTED] deployment to Iraq, were while augmenting the 1MARDIV based at Camp Pendleton, CA.

6. The facts of this case and statements made by [REDACTED] were screened with [REDACTED] TSO West Det, Whidbey Island, WA, who indicated that [REDACTED] actions do not merit prosecutive or disciplinary action. As such, no further investigation will be conducted by NCISRA Whidbey Island and this investigation is closed.

[REDACTED] also provided that [REDACTED] NFI, had stayed in Iraq the longest, only recently returning to NHOH. [REDACTED] speculated that if any of the corpsmen deployed to Iraq were going to have combat stress issues it would probably be [REDACTED] due to his extended stay. [REDACTED] had only seen [REDACTED] once since his return from Iraq and spoke to him for less than five minutes. [REDACTED] stated that [REDACTED] had lost about thirty pounds and looked "bad". [REDACTED] had no knowledge of [REDACTED] abusing any EPWs. According to [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] were best friends and socialized outside of work frequently.

STATEMENT

Place : NCIS Resident Agency Whidbey Island, WA

Date : October 8, 2003

I, [REDACTED], make the following free and voluntary statement to Special Agents [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] whom I know to be a Representative of the United States Naval Criminal Investigative Service. I make this statement of my own free will and without any threats made to me or promises extended. I fully understand that this statement is given concerning my knowledge of the allegation of the mistreatment of EPWs (Prisoners of War) in Iraq. [REDACTED]

For purposes of identification, I am a [REDACTED] male, born on [REDACTED] in [REDACTED]. I am currently assigned to the Naval Hospital Oak Harbor Mental Health Department at NAS Whidbey Island, WA. I currently reside at [REDACTED].

On January 29th, 2003, around 1600 hours, nine of us at the Naval Hospital were told that we were all being deployed on that Friday, January 31st to Iraq. We all flew together down to California to Camp Pendleton for about three weeks. At Pendleton, we received medical training everyday, received our gear and were assigned to the First Marine Division. From California, we left for Kuwait. We spent one night in Kuwait, and then left for our separate Battalions. I was with [REDACTED] with the 5th Marines, and assigned to the Second Platoon, Bravo Company. [REDACTED] was assigned to Charlie Company. My friend, [REDACTED] was with the Fourth Marines, Weapons Company. [REDACTED] was stationed over in Iraq the longest of all of us, and I feel saw more casualties and fatalities than me. [REDACTED]

The first few weeks in Iraq, it seemed like we were going in circles, basically just patrolling neighborhoods and small villages. My role was as a medic to the Marines, to assist them if they became sick or injured. I was also to provide medical services to Iraqi civilians and Iraqi military prisoners of war. While in Iraq, we were instructed that we were to treat our Marines first, then Iraqi civilians, then Iraqi military. We were told not to exhaust our resources on the Iraqis. Several Marines told me that if provided medical services to any Iraqi military personnel, that they would kill me. (However, later there was a wounded Iraqi POW who needed his dressings changed. The Marines actually called my attention to him to make sure he received treatment). It wasn't until about April 10th that there were a lot of Marine and civilian casualties. I did not witness any Marine fatalities but did see civilian fatalities. The Marines did not accept us very well because we were not stationed with the Marines prior to going to Iraq. They viewed us as fat, nasty Navy corpsmen. I felt very much alone out there, and was not the only one of us who felt that way. There were a few Marines who were more accepting of us, but for the most part, they did not like us. I'd say that pretty much all of us would try to be accepted by the Marines. I heard from my wife, who is a friend of [REDACTED] wife, that the Marines that [REDACTED] was stationed with hated him. They apparently tried to fuck with him a lot, but I don't know what the circumstances of that were. We were all in a tough situation, having been given such short notice to deploy, and barely had enough time to say goodbye to our families. I know that in theater, I did not have any access to email, but I believe that [REDACTED] had access to email, primarily the last three months he was over there. I came back from Iraq on June 4th. [REDACTED] came back just a few weeks ago in September. When I came back, I sent him one email just to let him know that I would take care of his family etc. While in theatre, I never saw [REDACTED]. I did not see him until he returned to Oak Harbor in September. [REDACTED]

Continuation of voluntary sworn statement of

on October 8, 2003

When [REDACTED] came back, he and I talked about how shitty it was over there. We talked about how shitty we were treated by the Marines. I noticed a change in [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] seemed more bitter and more disgruntled. [REDACTED] seemed more agitated, almost shell shocked. I know that our senses were so heightened and it took some time for me to adjust to life back here. [REDACTED] sarcastic humor became more serious and bitter. [REDACTED] also appeared to have lost a lot of weight. I did not observe any other physical changes in [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] wife, [REDACTED] told me that he has had night terrors since he's been back and stays up until 4:00 am and sleeps all day. [REDACTED]

I pray to God that [REDACTED] was ^{not serious} kidding about this, but he did tell me that he roughed up some Iraqi military EPWs. For example, he said that the EPWs would be cuffed and laying on the ground, and the Marines would be telling them to put their heads down. [REDACTED] forced their heads down in the dirt, which was a cultural insult to them. [REDACTED] said that he had to set the EPWs straight if they were talking or moving when they weren't supposed to. The first way to set the EPWs straight is to yell at them, then resort to more physical means if required. The physical force was usually at the discretion of the individual Marine or corpsmen. Since [REDACTED] came back, and after he was back for about one week, [REDACTED] mentioned that an Iraqi EPW was doing something he wasn't supposed to be doing. I don't know if he was told many times to stop, but [REDACTED] said that he picked up an empty tan, five gallon plastic water jug and started hitting an EPW with it. I don't know where he hit the EPW on the EPW's body. I think this EPW was the same one that [REDACTED] said he knocked over in the HUMV. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] while stateside, was outgoing, energetic, had a sarcastic humor, and would talk to anybody. He was really laid back, and never exhibited a temper. I met [REDACTED] briefly in North Carolina back in 2002. We both realized that we were being transferred to Oak Harbor, WA. When I first met him, I thought he was a 'putz.' But when we were out here, we became good friends, and hung out everyday, ^{and} every night before deploying to Iraq. [REDACTED] wife and my wife became very close friends, and while we were deployed each babysat the other's children, and they spent a lot of time together. They essentially took care of each other.. [REDACTED]

This statement, consisting of this page and 1 other page(s) was typed for me by [REDACTED] as we discussed its contents. I have read and understand the above statement. I have been given the opportunity to make any changes or corrections I desire to make and have placed my initials over the changes or corrections. This statement is the truth to the best of my knowledge and belief. [REDACTED]

STATEMENT

Place : NCISRA WHIDBEY ISLAND, WADate : October 8, 2003

I, [REDACTED] USN, [REDACTED] make the following free and voluntary statement to Special Agents [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] whom I know to be a Representative of the United States Naval Criminal Investigative Service. I make this statement of my own free will and without any threats made to me or promises extended. I fully understand that this statement is given concerning my knowledge of the alleged assault of Iraqi Enemy Prisoners of War (EPW) [REDACTED]

At this time, I, [REDACTED], desire to make the following voluntary statement. This statement is made with an understanding of my rights as set forth in the Suspect's Acknowledgement and Waiver of Rights form of 08OCT03. It is made with no threats or promises having been extended to me [REDACTED]

For purposes of identification, I am a [REDACTED] male, [REDACTED] years old born on [REDACTED] in [REDACTED]. I am currently assigned to Naval Hospital Oak Harbor. I have been at Whidbey since AUG02. I currently reside at [REDACTED]

On January 31, 2003 I was deployed with eight other Navy Corpsman from the Naval Hospital Oak Harbor to go to Iraq. We were given about 36 hours notice before we deployed. We met other (Corpsman) augmentees in Camp Pendleton, CA for about three weeks of training to prepare for the pending war with Iraq. On 21FEB03 we flew to Kuwait and were broken up into different units. I was assigned to the Combined Anti-Armor Team, 1st Marine Division, 1st Battalion, Weapons Company. Of the original nine deployed Corpsman, I was physically located near [REDACTED] (Bravo Company). During the war, I only saw [REDACTED] one time. However, after President BUSH stated the war was over we saw one another about two or three times a week. [REDACTED] is now separated from the Navy and he and his wife live in North Carolina. My mission in Iraq was to keep as many men at as many arms as possible. In the process I treated Marines and Iraqi civilians and military. None of my Marines were shot or injured while I was deployed to Iraq. I remember treating one Iraqi citizen for a torn toenail. He tripped because he was trying to get away from Marines. I also treated an Iraqi citizen who was shot [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] cannot say I was well received by the Marines with which I was assigned. I believe they think of us as lazy Corpsman who do not do a thing. My standard answer was if I did not have anything to do, it meant they were all healthy and able to fight. I asked to be moved to another vehicle (Humvee). I did not get along with [REDACTED] and we had words a time or two. The ironic part is that I actually outranked [REDACTED], but he always ordered me around. I was more content with the second vehicle I was assigned. [REDACTED] and I got along pretty well. I volunteered to help the Marines with Enemy Prisoners of War (EPW) and post security. I believe I was better accepted after I volunteered for this mission. I would pat down EPWs to ensure they did not have any weapons or dangerous items on their person. The majority of the people we came across and actually took as EPWs were looters. Sometimes I had to force EPWs on the ground by tripping them. At times I would use a stick to tap the part of the body I wanted moved due to the language barrier. I used the stick as an intermediary device. It was used as a tool to show noncompliant Iraqis a stepped up level [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] of force. I never abused any EPWs with the stick or any other object. An order from the Battalion Commander (BC) was passed to cease and desist the use of sticks. I stopped using the stick in around June when the order came down from the BC. I remember on one occasion I forced one EPW's face in the dirt to keep him from moving. I later read that Iraqis only put their face on the ground when they pray and it is a huge insult to their culture. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] I cannot recall any other occasions when I may have hurt an EPW. I returned back to United States of America on 13SEP03. I stayed the longest of the nine who were deployed. I admit I am bitter that I had to stay so long. The reason my unit had to stay so long is because [REDACTED] had to wait for relief help from Foreign Armies (Polish, Hungarians, Bulgarians, Ecuadorian [REDACTED])

[REDACTED] This statement, consisting of this page and 1 other page(s) was typed for me by [REDACTED] as we discussed its contents. I have read and understand the above statement. I have been given the opportunity to make any changes or corrections I desire to make and have placed my initials over the changes or corrections. This statement is the truth to the best of my knowledge and belief. [REDACTED] b7C

NARRATIVE

1. This investigation is being conducted under suspected violation of Article 128 of the UCMJ - Assault Consummated by a Battery.

2. On 06Oct03, [REDACTED] Naval Hospital Oak Harbor (NHOH), reported he learned through a counseling session that a deployed Corpsman, while in Iraq, possibly mistreated one or more Enemy Prisoners of War (EPWs). [REDACTED] provided the last name of [REDACTED] as the corpsman that allegedly "roughed up" some EPWs while in Iraq. [REDACTED] was later identified as [REDACTED]. For background, nine corpsman from NHOH were informed on 29JAN03, that they were to be deployed to Iraq. On 31JAN03, the corpsman deployed to Camp Pendleton, CA. Subsequent to approximately three weeks of training in CA, the corpsman flew to Kuwait, where they were separated and assigned to different companies within the 1st Marine Division. Seven of the nine Corpsman who deployed to Iraq are still assigned to NHOH. One of the Corpsman, [REDACTED] is now assigned to the NAVHOSP in Keflavik. Another CORPSMAN, [REDACTED] is now separated from the Navy. However, his active duty wife, [REDACTED] is stationed in Cherry Point, NC. Investigation continues.

I wanted to run something by you that the CO of the hospital made me aware of yesterday. They had an HN who was over in Iraq for a certain time period. That HN recently made a comment along the lines "when the Marines needed someone to rough up a prisoner, they came to me," or words to that effect, to someone else in the command. While I personally believe it was a matter of an HN who was "blowing smoke," the CO asked if I would run it by you to see if you thought anyone needed to be questioned. Again, she recognizes that this is probably nothing. However, given our present state of conflict she wasn't sure exactly how serious these words should be taken and we wanted to see if this is anything that should amount to NCIS getting involved.

Thanks! BTW, the 32' went off today without any problems.

Since we have been semi-officially apprised of possible mistreatment of a POW, we are almost obligated to interview the HN. If there is any substance the information can be forwarded to MEFO for their consideration.

All, SA [REDACTED] (now on way to CITF B'dad) was case agent on our end, and left a tentative closed behind on this while I was gone. W/ computer problems here recently, had not yet processed pending discussions w/ NWFO ASAC. We had checked w/ MWPE to see if our HM's name [REDACTED] came up anywhere in their case, which it does not. [REDACTED] was assigned to a Marine Unit while there. [REDACTED] reportedly told others from here that he roughed up POW's. Interviews indicated this as apparently nothing more than him putting them face down on ground in threatening situations when the POW's/Looters did not respond to verbal commands to get down when cuffed; using a stick to to direct them w/ touches to body until a "General" told them they could not do this anymore; and admittedly hitting one w/ an empty plastic 5 gal container.. Since [REDACTED] was not working w/ the other HM's from here, and we interviewed 7 out of 9, we did not see need to interview couple others who had transferred, and again were not actually w/ [REDACTED] in Iraq. If anyone thinks differently on this, pls let me know.

We hope to close this, as appears to be a lot of "talk" or bluster by the HM from here, and have to say that from interviews of all of the HM's from here who were over there in Iraq, several (including our guy) are minimum borderline PTSD from all the gore they reportedly dealt w/ on bombings, etc. Having said all that, here is cut/paste of narrative of Hou's report on this. R/[REDACTED]

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

1. Naval Hospital Oak Harbor (NHOH) reported an allegation of the mistreatment of one of more Enemy Prisoners of War (EPWs) by one of their Corpsman, while deployed to Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. The name of [REDACTED] was given as the individual who allegedly mistreated EPWs. Of the nine corpsman that deployed from NHOH, seven were available to interview. All of the remaining corpsman assigned to NHOH, minus [REDACTED] were interviewed relating to any knowledge of the mistreatment of EPWs by any of their peers. One interviewee, [REDACTED], stated [REDACTED] told him that he roughed up some EPWs while in Iraq. [REDACTED] was interviewed and stated he never abused any EPWs; [REDACTED] admitted to pushing one EPW's face in the dirt and tripping other difficult EPWs to put them on the ground. NCIS Field Office Marine West was contacted to determine if [REDACTED] name surfaced in a separate investigation by that office involving the abuse of Iraqi EPWs. The inquiry returned the investigations are unrelated. No further investigative activity will be performed by NCISRA Whidbey Island related to this case.

NARRATIVE

1. On 06Oct03, [REDACTED] NHOH, reported he learned through a counseling session that a deployed Corpsman, while in Iraq, possibly mistreated one or more EPWs. [REDACTED] provided the last name of [REDACTED] as the corpsman that allegedly "roughed up" some EPWs while in Iraq. [REDACTED] was later identified as [REDACTED]. For background, nine corpsman from NHOH were informed on 29JAN03 they were to be deployed to Iraq. On 31JAN03, the corpsman deployed to Camp Pendleton, CA. Subsequent to approximately three weeks of training in CA, the corpsman flew to Kuwait and were separated and assigned to different companies within the 1st Marine Division. Seven of the nine Corpsman that deployed to Iraq are still assigned to NHOH. One of the Corpsman, [REDACTED] is now assigned to the NAVHOSP in Keflavik. Another CORPSMAN, [REDACTED] is now separated from the Navy.

2. A complete list of the nine corpsman was obtained from [REDACTED] NHOH. All of the remaining corpsman that are assigned to NHOH, minus [REDACTED] were interviewed on 07OCT03. Five of the six corpsman interviewed, could not cite specific information relating to the mistreatment of EPWs. Exhibits (1) through (4) pertain.

3. [REDACTED] a friend of [REDACTED] stated [REDACTED] admitted to roughing up some Iraqi EPWs during a conversation they had after returning to the United States. [REDACTED] was the last of the corpsman to return back to the United States. He returned in mid September, while some came back as early as June. [REDACTED] relayed [REDACTED] forced EPWs heads in the dirt if they did not comply with orders they were given to put their heads down on the ground. This action would occur when the EPWs were cuffed and laying on the ground. According to [REDACTED] [REDACTED] said he had to set the EPWs straight if they were talking or moving or not complying with orders directed at them. The first way to set EPWs straight is to yell at them, then resort to more physical means if required. [REDACTED] told [REDACTED] he hit an EPW with an empty, tan, plastic, five-gallon water container for not complying with orders. [REDACTED] was unsure how many times the EPW was told to cease/correct his actions, and he was also unsure where the EPW was hit and how many times. [REDACTED] cited [REDACTED] appeared to have lost a significant amount of weight in Iraq. [REDACTED] observed [REDACTED] was bitter, disgruntled and agitated upon returning from his deployment. Exhibit (5) provides further detail of the interview with [REDACTED]

4. On 08OCT03, [REDACTED] was interviewed and questioned regarding his experience in Iraq. Subsequent to signing the Military Suspect's Acknowledgement/and Waiver of Rights, [REDACTED] stated he never abused any EPWs. [REDACTED] stated of the eight other corpsman with which he deployed, [REDACTED] had regular contact with him while they were deployed. Subsequent to President BUSH declaring an end to the war, [REDACTED] stated he saw [REDACTED] two or three times a week. [REDACTED] said he volunteered to assist the Marines in patting down EPWs after they were taken into custody to ensure they were free of weapons or dangerous items. He volunteered for this duty to gain better acceptance of the Marines. Most of the EPWs [REDACTED] encountered were looters. [REDACTED] said he had to force some EPWs to the ground by tripping them. [REDACTED] offered he used a stick to tap the part of the body he wanted the EPW to move due to the language barrier. [REDACTED] explained the use of the stick was as an intermediary device between verbal commands and direct manipulation of body parts. [REDACTED] said he stopped using the stick about JUN03, after a general order from the Battalion Commander was disseminated ceasing the use of such objects. [REDACTED] said he forced an EPW's face in the dirt to keep him from moving. [REDACTED] did not admit to any other incidents where he hurt an EPW. Exhibits (6) and (7) pertain.

5. The NCIS Field Office Marine West was contacted to determine if [REDACTED] name surfaced in a separate investigation by that office pertaining to the abuse of Iraqi EPWs. The inquiry returned the investigations are unrelated. MWPE is included in the Distribution because the alleged events occurred during [REDACTED] deployment to Iraq, while augmenting the 1MARDIV based at Camp Pendleton, CA. No further investigation activity will be conducted by NCISRA Whidbey Island related to this case. This investigation is closed.
