[REDACTED]

Bagram, Afghanistan (March - April 2001) - [REDACTED] claimed he was punched and slapped by Americans [REDACTED] made a point of stating females also hit him during this incident.) When asked how he knew was in Bagram, [REDACTED] reported another detainee told him they were in Bagram. [REDACTED] could not have been 100% sure because he was blindfolded the entire plane ride from Egypt to Bagram. When asked how he determined the detainers at Bagram were American, [REDACTED] noted all the personnel wore U.S. military uniforms similar to the uniforms worn at GTMO, without name tags and they spoke English.

Bagram, Afghanistan (March - April 2001) - [REDACTED] alleged he was "beat the worst" by an American civilian who spoke Egyptian. Specifically [REDACTED] stated he was slapped on the back of his head several times, and hit on the back of his head with the butt of a handgun. When asked how he knew the man that beat him was American, [REDACTED] conceded he assumed the man was American because he spoke good English and wore civilian clothing. [REDACTED] described the man as having black eyes, dark skinned (but not black), a big face, a pointed chin, a small beard, and wore jeans with a handgun belted across his chest, t-shirt and a baseball cap.
