ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED NOTE: MARION Bowman To: Date: Sat, Nov 16, 2002 1:15 PM Subject: Re: GITM E-mail went down before I could 'repy. My best guess is that we'd like to have a professional assessment prepared. I don't think that would be a waste of your time. I'll be back in touch Monday, I hope: Spike Bowman 11/15/02 04:08PM >>> Spike Bowman			Re: GIT	· · ·		The way lawy the grown and the works	annon allen ar Frai ar arranga a u		7	· 5
Date: Sat, Nov 16, 2002 1:16 PM Subject: Re; GITMO E-mail went down before I could reply. My best guess is that we'd like to have a professional assessment prepared. I don't think that would be a waste of your time. I'll be back in touch Monday, I hope: Spike Bowman >>>	,		A. T. The second Parks, Aller, A. J. S. Second	MARION E	Bowman		and the second s		HEREIN	IS UNCL	ASSIFIED		. b7C prepared. I don't think that would be a waste of your time. I'll be back in touch Monday, I hope. Spike Bowman Spike Bowman		Date:	L] :15 PM	,						. ·
Spike Bowman >>>									e'd like t	o have a	professiona	al assess	sment
Thanks for moving ahead on this. It's my understanding that the Judge Advocate assigned to the CITF has already documented and forwarded these issues up his DOD chain. I have not seen the documents, but our people on the ground say that he hasn't received any written response to his concerns. You're right that from a behavioral perspective, it is our professional opinion that the DHS interrogtion tactics we discussed have been, and will likely continue to be, counterproductive. We have not at our level documented this to DOD, but have raised these issues with GTMO management. We could include our opinion in an FBiHQ document to DOD if that is how this will be addressed. I fully agree that this issue raises larger policy issues that go beyond the behavioral assessment support function that our SSA's here provide at GTMO. NARION Bowman 11/15 3:02 PM:> I've talked with Ken Wainstein about the issue you pose. I think we need to raise this up a bit as there are significant policy concerns here, including the ability to obain information. It's Friday-afternoon and everyone is getting the end-of-the-week stuff dumped on them so I probably won't be able to get to Mefford until late and probably not D'Amuro at all today but will as soon as possible — likely Monday. Meanwhile, let me pose a question to you. You guys are invited to be there for a purpose and the purpose is to help determine how best to get information from the individual detainee. You're telling me, and I agree, that the tactics being employed by DHS (is is only DHS or other military as well?) are dysfunctional. Might it be useful if you were to pen a professional opinion to that effect and provide it to appropriate military manager? It could be to a GITMO manager or at any level up the food chain (I have lots of military contacts including into JCS) depending on what our guys think is most useful. Time-wise, I'm concerned because I know there are lots of visitors to the site, including media. And, if memory serves, Red Cross has a permanent apar	٠	I'll be bac	k in touc	h Monday,	I hope.					•
Spike, Thanks for moving ahead on this. It's my understanding that the Judge Advocate assigned to the CITF has already documented and forwarded these issues up his DOD chain. I have not seen the documents, but our people on the ground say that he hasn't received any written response to his concerns, You're right that from a behavioral perspective, it is our professional opinion that the DHS interrogition factics we discussed have been, and will likely continue to be, counterproductive. We have not at our level documented this to DOD, but have raised these issues with GTMO management. We could include our opinion in an FBIHO document to DOD if that is how this will be addressed. I fully agree that this issue raises larger policy issues that go beyond the behavioral assessment support function that our SSA's here provide at GTMO. >>> MARION Bowman 11/15 3:02 PM>>> I've talked with Ken Wainstein about the issue you pose. I think we need to raise this up a bit as there are significant policy concerns here, including the ability to obain information. It's Friday afternoon and everyone is getting the end-of-the-week stuff duriped on them soil probably won't be able to get to Mefford until late and proably not D'Amuro at all today but will as soon as possible – likely Monday. Meanwhile, let me pose a question to you. You guys are invited to be there for a purpose and the purpose is to help determine how best to get information from the individual detaine. You're telling me, and I agree, that the tactics being employed by DHS (is is only DHS or other military as well?) are dysfunctional. Might it be useful if you were to pen a professional opinion to that effect and provide it to an appropriate military manager? It could be to a GITMO manager or at any level up the food chain (I have lots of military contacts including into JCS) depending on what our guys think is most useful. Time-wise, I'm concerned because I know there are lots of visitors to the site, including media. And, if memory serves, Red Cross has a perma		Spike Bo	wman		*	:		•				··· ,	·.'
tactics we discussed have been, and will likely continue to be, counterproductive. We have not at our level documented this to DOD; but have raised these issues with GTMO management. We could include our opinion in an FBIHQ document to DOD if that is how this will be addressed. I fully agree that this issue raises larger policy issues that go beyond the behavioral assessment support function that our SSA's here provide at GTMO. NARION Bowman 11/15 3:02 PM:>> I've talked with Ken Wainstein about the issue you pose. I think we need to raise this up a bit as there are significant policy concerns here, including the ability to obain information. It's Friday afternoon and everyone is getting the end-of-the-week stuff dumped on them so I probably won't be able to get to Mefford until late and proably not D'Amuro at all today but will as soon as possible – likely Monday. Meanwhile, let me posera question to you. You guys are invited to be there for a purpose and the purpose is to help determine how best to get information from the individual detainee. You're telling me, and I agree, that the tactics being employed by DHS (is is only DHS or other military as well?) are dysfunctional. Might it be useful if you were to pen a professional opinion to that effect and provide it to an appropriate military manager? It could be to a GITMO manager or at any level up the food chain (I have lots of military contacts including into JCS) depending on what our guys think is most useful. Time-wise, I'm concerned because I know there are lots of visitors to the site, including media. And, if memory serves, Red Cross has a permanent apartment there. All it would take would be a short press article about the jack-booted interrogators — of which FBI is a part — to irritate our European partners and launch Congressional hearings. My concern is not for individual actions, at least as you've described them to me, but for cumulative ones that demonstrate systemic behavior. Spike Bowman		Spike, Thanks for has alrea	dy docur	ahead on nented and	this. It's n I forwarde	ny unders d these is	ssues up	his DC	D chain	. I have n	ot seen the	docume
I've talked with Ken Wainstein about the issue you pose. I think we need to raise this up a bit as there are significant policy concerns here, including the ability to obain information. It's Friday afternoon and everyone is getting the end-of-the-week stuff dumped on them so I probably won't be able to get to Mefford until late and proably not D'Amuro at all today but will as soon as possible — likely Monday. Meanwhile, let me pose a question to you. You guys are invited to be there for a purpose and the purpose is to help determine how best to get information from the individual detainee. You're telling me, and I agree, that the tactics being employed by DHS (is is only DHS or other military as well?) are dysfunctional. Might it be useful if you were to pen a professional opinion to that effect and provide it to an appropriate military manager? It could be to a GITMO manager or at any level up the food chain (I have lots of military contacts including into JCS) depending on what our guys think is most useful. Time-wise, I'm concerned because I know there are lots of visitors to the site, including media. And, if memory serves. Red Cross has a permanent apartment there. All it would take would be a short press article about the jack-booted interrogators — of which FBI is a part — to inflate our European partners and launch Congressional hearings. My concern is not for individual actions, at least as you've described them to me, but for cumulative ones that demonstrate systemic behavior. I'd be interested in learning, if anyone hears, of the judge advocate's success or lack therof in his attempts to dissuade this behavior.		tactics we level docu our opinio raises larg	e discuss umented on in an F ger policy	ed have be this to DOC BIHQ docu	en, and w D; but hav ument to 0	vill likely o e raised t DOD if tha	continue t these issu at is how	o be, c ues wit this wil	ounterpr h GTMC I be add	roductive.) manager ressed. I i	We have ment. We of fully agree	not at ou could incl that this i	r ude issue
I've talked with Ken Wainstein about the issue you pose. I think we need to raise this up a bit as there are significant policy concerns here, including the ability to obain information. It's Friday afternoon and everyone is getting the end-of-the-week stuff dumped on them so I probably won't be able to get to Mefford until late and proably not D'Amuro at all today but will as soon as possible — likely Monday. Meanwhile, let me pose a question to you. You guys are invited to be there for a purpose and the purpose is to help determine how best to get information from the individual detainee. You're telling me, and I agree, that the tactics being employed by DHS (is is only DHS or other military as well?) are dysfunctional. Might it be useful if you were to pen a professional opinion to that effect and provide it to an appropriate military manager? It could be to a GITMO manager or at any level up the food chain (I have lots of military contacts including into JCS) depending on what our guys think is most useful. Time-wise, I'm concerned because I know there are lots of visitors to the site, including media. And, if memory serves. Red Cross has a permanent apartment there. All it would take would be a short press article about the jack-booted interrogators — of which FBI is a part — to inflate our European partners and launch Congressional hearings. My concern is not for individual actions, at least as you've described them to me, but for cumulative ones that demonstrate systemic behavior. I'd be interested in learning, if anyone hears, of the judge advocate's success or lack therof in his attempts to dissuade this behavior.		:					′. •	. , ′					b7
is to help determine how best to get information from the individual detainee. You're telling me, and I agree, that the tactics being employed by DHS (is is only DHS or other military as well?) are dysfunctional. Might it be useful if you were to pen a professional opinion to that effect and provide it to an appropriate military manager? It could be to a GITMO manager or at any level up the food chain (I have lots of military contacts including into JCS) depending on what our guys think is most useful. Time-wise, I'm concerned because I know there are lots of visitors to the site, including media. And, if memory serves, Red Cross has a permanent apartment there. All it would take would be a short press article about the jack-booted interrogators — of which FBI is a part — to irritate our European partners and launch Congressional hearings. My concern is not for individual actions, at least as you've described them to me, but for cumulative ones that demonstrate systemic behavior. I'd be interested in learning, if anyone hears, of the judge advocate's success or lack therof in his attempts to dissuade this behavior. Spike Bowman		I've talked are signifi everyone	l wtih Ke cant poli is getting	n Wainsteir by concernate the concernate the concern t	n about the s here, inc f-the-weel	e issue yo cluding th k stuff du	e ability t mped on	o obaii them s	n informa so I prob	ation. It's ably won't	Friday afte be able to	rnoon an get to	ere Id memory serves, Red Cross has a permanent apartment there. All it would take would be a short press article about the jack-booted interrogators — of which FBI is a part — to irritate our European partners and launch Congressional hearings. My concern is not for individual actions, at least as you've described them to me, but for cumulative ones that demonstrate systemic behavior. I'd be interested in learning, if anyone hears, of the judge advocate's success or lack therof in his attempts to dissuade this behavior. Spike Bowman	•,	is to help agree, tha Might it be military m	determin at the tac e useful i anager?	e how best tics being e f you were It could be	to get info employed to pen a p e to a GITI	ormation by DHS (profession MO mana	from the is is only nal opinio ager or at	individ DHS on to the any le	ual detai or other r at effect vel up t h	nee. You nilitary as and provi e food ch	're telling n well?) are de it to an a	ne, and l dysfunct appropria	ional. ite to dissuade this behavior. Spike Bowman	,	memory s article abor launch Co	erves, R out the ja ongressio	ed Cross h ck-booted i anal hearing	ias a perm interrogati gs. My co	nanent ap ors of w ncern is r	ertment to vhich FBI not for inc	there. is a pa dividua	All it wou art to in l actions	uld take w rritate our , at least a	ould be a s European	short pres partners	and .
b6					fanyorie t	nears, of t	the judge	advóc	ate's suc	ccess or la	ick therof i	n his atte	empts
		Spike Boy	vman	•				,		,		*
		CC:				BATTLE,	FRANK;		, * ,			:

FBI024407CBT