We have been doing that. We forwarded those to [REDACTED] the Judge Advocate for the JTF, he is coordinating this issue for the Military here, he maintains a database and coordinates with NCIS and the Navy IG. We also cc General Hood - He is the General that received TJ Harrington's letter. Bottom line: what we pass to you we also tell our military counterparts here.

[REDACTED] - you had sent me a couple of 302s a couple of weeks ago that alleged abuse by the military (as I recall). Seems to me Grant (or someone from MLDU) should be sending those to their counterparts in DoD for such follow-up as DOD deems appropriate.

We are forwarding all allegations of abuse on the part of any USG entity identified in FBI documents to you and [REDACTED] of Inspection. I will set up coordination with the Joint Task Force and the Office of Administrative Review of Detained Enemy Combatants (OARDEC), the tribunal people, to forward to us documentation of any allegations involving FBI personnel. We will then pass them on to MLDU, you and Inspection.

I think it would be in their baliwick -- but only if they know of the allegation in the first instance.

[REDACTED] Can you answer Valerie Caproni's question regarding follow-up on detainee abuse allegations against FBI Agents?

Wouldn't that type of follow-up be handled by INSD/OPR?

Thanks [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] answer was not sufficient -- although he essentially told me what I needed to know -- no investigation was done. I am talking to Gary Bald. Seems to me there needs to be a system so that when we learn of allegations against our agents, even if we believe them to be untrue, someone needs to run it down so we have a record that we did so. If the military is investigating allegations against the FBI, I would want to know that as well.

I'll make inquiries of the military -- The Judge Advocate here has a database where he tracks this stuff. He is in DC this week but I'll see what I can get from his assistant -unless [REDACTED] answer is sufficient.

As you know, the ACLU has issued a FOIA request that is resulting in us turning over a ton of materials, including excerpts from memos that are written to DOJ as part of the repatriation process. We've just seen one where the detainee [REDACTED] (00333DP) alleged that he was assaulted during his transport to Bagram and after arriving at Bagram by FBI agents. I know that once these are released the question is going to be what did we do upon learning of such allegations against FBI agents. So, what did we do?
