. . •. : I don't want to create work, but the Director may be asked so I'd like us to. firm up that, in fact, we are aware of only 2 allegations against FBI employees: one was investigated by IIS and found to be unsubstantiated (I'd be interested in what was done beyond taking statement); one was made by a detainee, and is being investigated by OIG. Put differently: Toni should make sure her recollection is correct. , should make sure her recollection is correct.

So for the director's purposes, the answer is that OIG has this under investigation, right?

Thank you for your response, Toni - you can stand down on this one. The Office of Oversight and Review team, which is responsible for the overall DOJ inquiry re potential prisoner/detainee abuse, advised today that a vetting protocol has been established within the OIG to ensure that close coordination and communication is effected with and the other OIG components regarding to all matters pertinent to their review, including the one referred to herein.

See the attached series of e-mail regarding (only a small segment of) "detainee abuse" matters the DOJ OIG is investigating. DOJ IG has taken over anything remotely related to or under the umbrella of detainee abuse, and as such, we are not investigating. This is privacy information, and I'm unsure of DOJ's position in releasing any details back to us (INSD) or to the General Counsel on the "detainee abuse" investigation. I can reach out to (OIG) and ask if you'd like. T>

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

Toni - OGC Valerie Caproni advised last night that she had been made aware of the possible existence of an FBI OPR investigation, ostensibly spearheaded in 08/2004 by former UC and/or yourself, which related to information provided by an FBI SA named subsequent to his completion of a tour of duty in Irag apparently alleged that another Bureau employee, who had been called back to active duty to serve in Iraq as a Major, had been assigned oversight duties for a prisoner detention camp upon his arrival in the ITO and might have some insight or knowledge re incidents of prisoner abuse. Ms. Caproni has requested confirmation of whether an OPR was initiated re this matter, and if so, what is the current status of the investigation? Please advise accordingly. thanks,
